MedData® Acquires SPOTCHECK®

Acquisition Expands Real-Time Transaction and Credit Card
Processing Services for Combined Coast-to-Coast Customer Base

Charlotte, North Carolina (July 13) – MedData, a division of AGDATA®, Inc., today announced that it has purchased the assets of Sacramento, California based Insurance Benefit Spot Check, Inc., which operates under the name Spot Check.

Both companies are leading providers of automated eligibility verification and other real-time transaction services for the healthcare industry, connecting providers with payors. Their services enable hospitals, medical centers and physician practices to quickly and efficiently verify eligibility and coverage for Medicare, Medicaid and private health insurance companies. Providers can also check on insurance claim status, obtain referral authorizations and process credit card payments.

Spot Check provides valuable real-time transaction processing services to customers in California, Texas, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Florida. MedData delivers a broad array of healthcare transaction services to providers across the Southeast, Texas, Missouri and other key markets.

Going forward, the combined company will be known as MedData. The SPOTCHECK® product brand will be maintained. MedData will support all of Spot Check's customer and vendor relationships, and will expand Spot Check's infrastructure with MedData's technology. In addition, MedData clients will be able to utilize Spot Check's Point of Service merchant card systems.

As a result of the acquisition, MedData now operates an extensive number of direct connections to the most important California payors. In total, MedData offers among the most payor connections of any company in the industry.

Steven Purdy, President and COO of MedData said, "With Spot Check joining us, we immediately strengthen our service offering to both payors and providers across the country. We remain focused on providing exceptional service for our combined customer base and building on our strong reputation that is now coast-to-coast."

Larry A. Saltzman, MD, Spot Check Founder said, "I think our clients will see some exciting benefits from the integration. As service companies, we are both focused on taking care of the needs of our customers in a way that differentiates us from many other vendors. This combination will greatly enhance the services we can offer our clients in all the markets we serve."

"I am truly pleased to be working closely with a respected industry leader like Dr. Saltzman. The integration of Spot Check with MedData enhances our position as a pioneer for all-payer real-time transaction services," Purdy said.

The combined company will be headquartered in Charlotte, N.C. and will maintain the office in California.
